Pea River Power Co. Will Install New Machinery at Its Plant Here

The following from last Wednesday's Troy Messenger will be read with interest by Elba people:

"Official information was divulged in an interview with ex-Governor Charles Henderson, president of the Pea River Power Company today, in which he stated that an expenditure of approximately $62,000 will be made in purchasing new and more modern machinery for the company.

A Diesel engine, considered the very best for producing power among the average power companies, will be installed at the power company's location on Pea River near Elba. This machinery will reach there at an early date, coming from New Orleans.

President Henderson stated to a representative from this paper that the installation of this new machinery will eliminate practically all of the trouble in furnishing consistent service to Troy and other communities which rely on the Pea River Power Company for their power supply.

Diesel equipment has proven its ability from a service standpoint throughout the country, and its addition to the local power company's equipment assures Troy of a modern source of power.

The rumor that the Alabama Power Company had purchased the interests of the Pea River Power Company was set at rest when President Henderson openly denied that fact. However, he admitted that negotiations had been intermittently taken up with his company by the Alabama Power Company for more than a year but as yet nothing definite has resulted.

Other candidates for nomination in the 1926 democratic primary, for the office of secretary of state are W. P. Folsom, of Montgomery, and B. B. Cather, of Ashville. Both have already filed their official announcements in the secretary of state's office.

Weak Nervous

"I was weak and nervous and run-down," writes Mrs. Edith Sellers, of 406 N. 21st St., East St. Louis, Ill. "I couldn't sleep nights, I was restless, I felt tired and not in condition to do my work. I would have such pains in my stomach that I was afraid I would get down in bed. My mother came to see me and suggested that I use

I felt better after my first bottle. I had a better appetite. It seemed to strengthen me up. I can now do my work as usual. I am glad to recommend Cardui for what it did for me. I haven't needed any medicine since I took Cardui, and I am in fine condition."

Nervousness, restlessness, sleeplessness—these symptoms so often are the result of a weak, run-down condition, and may develop more seriously if not treated in time.

If you are nervous and run-down, or suffering from some womanly weakness, take Cardui.

It shows the Automobile roads, the best roads being indicated by a heavy red line, the second class roads by a lighter red line and the third class roads by a still lighter red line. You can easily see what a wonderful advantage this will be to you when taking a trip. In other ways the map is complete in every detail. It shows all the small towns—the railroads—the experiment stations and the agricultural colleges with a blue ring around each. It is handsomely printed in four colors and is just the map you should have hanging on your wall for ready reference.

PAGE 2—TOWNS, CITIES, OTHER INFORMATION.

"There is nothing in which gives so much as in the plant. God asks no little of us and law of a tree."—Salvator.

Sarah Ann Dean, (known as S. S. Sallie) was born March 13, 1881 and died February 8, 1925. She was daughter of Mr. and Mrs. F. H. Carr. She was married to S. T. Dean March 1, 1903, and to this union were born five children, four boys and one girl. All were home reared. Sallie was a noble wife and a good mother.

She was taken sick Tuesday, Feb. 10, 1925, with flu and pneumonia. We all know she was very sick, but did not think her condition so serious until Friday morning. She said all the time she would never get well, but that she was ready to go if she could only go easy. Then she turned to Sam, her husband, and said: I want you to see after sister and the baby and you all stay together. And next she called for Perry and said: I want you to help see after sister and the baby. Then called for Gracie and said: Gracie be a good boy and help take care of the little ones and you all stay together for I won't be here long. I am going to leave you. Then she called for Freeman, the baby, and said: Quit being so mean and ugly and be a better boy for your mother as she was walking out of the room, and said: Stay with me Ma, and as her Mother was holding her hand she said: Ma, my way is clear, I am ready to go. All I dread is the change of death, and I hope and pray to God it won't be so hard. Then later on asked if Pa was coming, and said: He may be too late.

Her second son, Eugene, was down with pneumonia at this time and she looked up at Mrs. Noveller Stringfellow and Mrs. Anner Lee, who were by her bedside, and said: You all help see after Eugene. Then she asked if Mrs. Dean, her mother, was coming, and they told her that she was coming. And while she was talking, and on the next day, which was Saturday, she mentioned several times: Don't you all hear that singing, and just listen at that singing and preaching. Then she repeated several times that she was ready to go if she could only go easy. And on Sunday evening just a few minutes before she died, she looked up at Sam, her husband, and Gracie, her oldest son, and said in a whisper: I am ready. I am ready. I am ready to go. Then the death angel came and claimed her for its own on Sunday evening at 4:00 o'clock. She passed away just as easy as one could.

We want to give to you a devoted wife and a good mother, and we loved by all who knew her, for she always was a loving wife. Yes, indeed, everything was done for her that human hands could do by husband and children, relatives and friends, and the family doctor and Dr. Doctor McLeod and Doctor Brunson. Also Mrs. Noveller Stringfellow and Mrs. Anner Lee were at her bedside, doing all that lay in their power to ease her pain, but God saw fit to call her home, where there will be no more sickness, sorrow nor death, and God will wipe all tears from our eyes. And what a great consolation it is to know that we can so live here in this present world, that we can meet her in that beautiful land on high where there will be no more good-byes.

She was laid to rest in Zion Chapel cemetery the following Monday, February 9, 1925. Funeral services were conducted by Rev. W. V. Wallace, of Kinston, Ala., and were held at Zion Chapel. The text that was used was the 14th Chapter of St. John, second verse, which reads like this: "My Father's house are many mansions, if it were not so I would have told you, I go to prepare a place for you." A host of friends and relatives followed her remains to the last resting place. We want to say to the relatives to cheer up, and be submissive to God's will, for remember the scriptures found in 4-1-1: "The Lord giveth and the Lord taketh away, blessed be the name of the Lord."

We want to say we had but two brothers, S. T. and H. W. Dean, both already been in the paper about H. W. Dean's wife, but we wish to say a little as there was just four days difference in their deaths. Mattie Dean, wife of W. Dean, passed away February 4, 1925. She leaves five small children: Dixon, Luna Belle, B. Carrie and Dallas. She told Sallie she would never get well. She was a noble wife and a good mother. She told us she was going to die and to see that her little children stayed out of the road and was not run over. She was the victim of pneumonia and was sick only five days. The last word she said was, we asked her if she did not want some soap, and she said: Lay me down and let me sleep a little, for I have got to hurry, to-morrow is election day. She is sweetly sleeping, awaiting that great judgment morning when all the dead arise to meet Christ in the air, where there will be no more sickness, death, nor sorrow, and no more tears. Both of our sisters were laid to rest in Zion Chapel cemetery.

Written by their sisters-in-law, Cora, Bell and Pearl, and a friend, Ethel Jacobs.

A CARD OF THANKS.

On Sunday night, Feb. 1, 1925, Sarah Ann Dean was taken sick with flu, followed by pneumonia, and she passed away Sunday evening, February 8, 1925.

We want to thank the good people of Rhodes community for their kindness, aid and assistance shown us during the sickness and death of our wife and mother, and especially Mrs. Noveller Stringfellow and Mrs. Anner Lee, who sat by her bedside so patiently, and did all that lay in their power to relieve her pains, and speak words of comfort to her. Especially do we thank Doctor Ballard, the family doctor, who was so kind and thoughtful of us during our sadness and grief.

GOOD SEEDBED IS IMPORTANT NEED.

During the next few weeks the biggest task of farmers will be preparing land for planting. Already a good start has been made in many sections, according to reports received at Auburn; and the work will continue until the end of the planting season.

In line with recommendations made annually for the last several years, Experiment Service specialists at Auburn are again calling attention to the importance of thorough preparation of land before planting. County agents are doing likewise.

It is generally accepted that a crop is half made when it is properly planted on a good seedbed thoroughly prepared. If the land is not thoroughly prepared poor germination of seed, slow growth of young plants, difficult cultivation, and lower yields in the end will follow.

There are several ways to prepare land for planting and the method selected depends upon the individual. The main object is to go deep enough for a good seedbed and then pulverize thoroughly. Several harrowings may be necessary.

Cultivation becomes a comparatively simple matter after thorough preparation. On such a seedbed cultivation that will control weeds is the main need. This has been shown by experiments in every section of the United States.
